

EMPRESS READY TO ABDICATE THRONE?

ANNOUNCES SHE HAS DECIDED UPON SOLUTION OF THE PRESENT TROUBLE. SOME TIMES.

REPORTED AT PEKING

London Hears Similar Reports Through Different Sources This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Peking, Jan. 31.—The Imperial foreign office announced that the Empress Dowager informed the members of the cabinet at their meeting in the palace today that the throne had been decided on a solution of the situation which would insure peace. She instructed the minister to arrange accordingly.

Has Conference.
Nanking, Jan. 31.—Wang-Chung Wei, the foreign minister and Chin-Chin-Tao, the finance minister in the republican cabinet called today on rear admiral Joseph B. Murdock, commander of the U. S. Atlantic fleet on board the special service ship Rainbow. Wilbur T. Gracy, the U. S. Consul General at Nanking also was present at the meeting.

The two republican leaders conferred pleasantly for some time with the admiral and the consul. Admiral Murdock probably will return the call. No reports have been received here of serious fighting between the imperialist and republican forces.

It is understood that the Imperial family has accepted the conditions laid down by the republicans and that abdication will be announced immediately. At the conference yesterday between the Empress Dowager Prince Ching, the ex-regent, and Prince Ching the former premier, it is believed to have been decided that the Imperial family and princes would abdicate if they were allowed to retain their empty titles, reside in Peking or elsewhere at their pleasure and receive annual pensions aggregating 3 million taels (approximately 2 million dollars) and that the transference of power would be carried out with as little loss of dignity to the throne as possible.

Martial Law.
London, Jan. 31.—A terrible panic among the officials in Peking has caused many of them to seek shelter today in the foreign concession. Martial law has been proclaimed in the native city according to a special received here this morning.

The mayor has resigned and fearing that the lives of the members of his family are endangered has sent his wife and children and other relatives to take refuge in the French concession.

The Armistice.
The armistice between the Imperialist and republican forces of China which was officially removed yesterday is being disregarded by the republican troops according to a news agency dispatch received here today from Peking. The republican army is following up the Imperialist army at Kueiching where it defeated the Imperialist forces commanded by General Chang Sun on Tuesday. The victorious army is now marching towards the city to Su-Chow on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

Edict Signed.
The edict of abdication of the Chinese throne has been signed according to a message from Peking. The court will not quit Peking for a month as the Manchian troops of the garrison threaten to shoot the royal family and other princesses if they attempt to leave the capital.

PANAMA IS ROUSED AGAINST COLUMBIA

Intense Feeling Existing Between Two Countries Shown in Incident at Panama Yesterday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Panama, Jan. 31.—A public demonstration of the feeling existing in Panama against Columbia, was made last night in front of the residence of the consular agent of Columbia. The incident had its origin in an article appearing in the "Star and Herald" by Antonio Zubietta, a prominent young man, in answer to an insulting article published recently in a Bogota newspaper against Panama.

In response to the confidential agent of Columbia issued a statement containing offensive remarks against Panama. Indignant at his conduct, hundreds of citizens gathered last night in front of his house, denouncing Columbia and cheering Panama, making a terrible din.

There was no violence, but Governor Perches ordered the police to disperse the crowd and place a strong guard in the Columbian residence.

A sentiment of the strong indignation against the Columbian makes itself manifest everywhere.

DARROW'S DEFENSE TO BE MOST UNIQUE IS THE REPORT TODAY

He Will Claim Detective Who Testifies Against Him Was One of Bureau's Operators.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—Despite the absence of any official statement to that effect it is generally known that Bert H. Franklin, former chief of detectives for the McNamara defense, now facing trial on the charge of jury bribing, will be the principal witness for the state in the prosecution of indictments against Clarence S. Darrow for similar alleged offenses. To offset his testimony it is generally accepted that the Darrow defense will endeavor to prove that Franklin, if not actually in the employ of Wm. J. Burns, at least was in the service of the state while employed as confidential agent of the defense in the McNamara case. Samuel L. Browne, chief of detectives connected with the district attorney's office, made the statement that Darrow's light-heartedness with his confidential employee during the course of the McNamara trial was responsible for his present position, inferring that he betrayed him because of his alleged lack of loyalty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

UNION MEN OBJECT TO SHIPPING CARDS

Inform Official of Rock Island Arsenal That They Would Not Accept New System.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 31.—Colonel George W. Burr, a prominent official of the Rock Island Arsenal headquarters was today informed by union leaders that the shipping cards would not be accepted by union arsenal employees following a mass meeting last night.

Col. Burr announced he will issue these cards within a few days. The union men will meet again tonight to hear the report of the committee sent to confer with Col. Burr. Leaders among the thirteen hundred men declare the men will not accept the cards and trouble is expected.

Col. Burr says that the cards will in no way affect the wages of the men nor the amount of work which they are required to do but is merely to a more systematic method of management.

The men say they have no objection to the character of the cards but claim they must have assurances that their acceptance will not be a part of the complete installation of the Taylor system.

Representatives to the American Federation of Labor are in the city attempting to organize the different departments at the arsenal. At present about five hundred men are members of the union.

MADISON OPPOSED TO COMMISSION PROJECT

Majority Against Change in Neighborhood of Five Hundred Voted on Tuesday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 31.—The voters of Madison, at a special election on Tuesday, turned down the commission form of government by a majority of 476 votes. The total vote for the adoption of the commission government was 2,193 to 2,669, against it. The total vote cast was 4,863, nearly a normal vote for a spring election.

The wards that went for commission form of government were the First, Second, Fifth and Tenth. The Third, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth wards went against it. In the wards where university students and faculty members reside the vote was heavily in favor of commission government.

The returns indicate that a large majority of the taxpayers were opposed to commission government. Taxes are exceptionally high in Madison and property owners evidently feared a further boost if commission government were adopted.

Advocates and opponents of commission government waged a lively campaign which continued six weeks. A committee of one hundred citizens led the campaign for the change of government. Mayor J. C. Schuchert and City Attorney J. A. Aylward were in favor of commission government. Advocates of commission government charge the opposition with rejecting about two hundred votes of university students in the Fifth ward which should have been conducted. Friends of commission government declared Tuesday night that they would bring the question up again at a special election a year from now.

In Public Eye Gives His Idea of How to Succeed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Jan. 31.—George W. Perkins who started his business career as an office boy in Chicago later became a partner of J. P. Morgan and Company in the banking business, was fifty years old today. The eminent financier did not permit the anniversary to interfere with his ordinary routine of work. Just at present Mr. Perkins is an exceedingly busy man, for, if rumor is correct, he is looking after the financial end of the Roosevelt presidential boom, in addition to giving his time and attention to the many great business enterprises in which he is interested. When asked to give his advice to the young men who are eager to succeed in life he replied: "Keep pegging away. Time and conditions may change, but the old rule remains the same, that there is no success without keeping everlastingly at it."

SENATE FIGHT OVER TARIFF BILL REPORT

Objection Is Made That Twenty Days Is Not Long Enough for Committee on Subject.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 31.—The fight over the question of instructing the Senate Finance committee to report the democratic steel bill within twenty days was begun when the senate convened today. Republican Leader Patterson protested that twenty days was insufficient time for tariff consideration, particularly for hearing Pacific coast interests. Senator Lodge made a point of order and Vice President Sherman deferred reference until after disposition of the pending children's bureau bill which probably will be late today.

INVEST ARCHBISHOP PRENDERGAST WITH THE SACRED PALLIUM

Cardinal Gibbons Presides At Ceremony Which Took Place Today In Philadelphia Cathedral.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 31.—Before a distinguished portion of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States, including the three American cardinals and numerous archbishops and bishops, the Most Rev. Edmund P. Prendergast, archbishop of Philadelphia, was today invested with the sacred pallium. This insignia is the official recognition by the church of the archbishop's power to succeed to the functions of the late archbishop Ryan, who died February 11 last.

The ceremony took place in the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul. The structure was decked in the papal colors, yellow and white, interspersed with the American colors and the archbishop's purple. The rarity and significance of the occasion and the presence of so many dignitaries of the Church attracted a large crowd. The vicinity of the cathedral was roped off entirely an hour before the ceremonies began.

Shortly after 10 o'clock a solemn procession of the clergy wended its way to the cathedral and a throng of other persons crowded the edifice. Following the pontifical mass, which was sung by Bishop John E. Fitzmaurice, head of the Erie diocese, the pallium was placed upon the archbishop's shoulders. Cardinal Gibbons presided at the ceremony. Mr. John J. McCort, vicar general of the archdiocese, officiated as assistant priest. Bishop Cuneo of Pittsburgh delivered the sermon, and the students of St. Charles Borromeo Seminary furnished the music.

When the new archbishop had renewed his oath of allegiance and fidelity to the holy see, Cardinal Gibbons rose from his seat, and, lifting the pallium from the altar, laid it upon the shoulders of the archbishop. As soon as the declaration of the Cardinal was made investing the pallium, Archbishop Prendergast ascended to the altar and pronounced the papal benediction.

The conferring of the sacred pallium was instituted in the fourth century, and to a new archbishop it is the mark of power and authority from Rome as well as allegiance to the head of the Church. The vestment is a band of white wool with two pendants of the same material, which inserted in it are six purple crosses, the whole being worn about the shoulders and fastened with three jewels, an amethyst, a topaz and a ruby.

The Most Rev. Edmund P. Prendergast, the new archbishop of Philadelphia, was born in Ireland sixty-nine years ago. He came to America in 1859, and six years later, in the very cathedral where he today was today invested with the pallium, he was ordained a priest. He served in various churches in eastern Pennsylvania, and in 1874 he was made rector of St. Malachy's Church, in this city, of which he is still nominally the rector. Fourteen years ago he was made auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia, and eleven years ago Archbishop Ryan appointed him administrator of the archdiocese, to take effect at the death of the archbishop.

MORE LIGHT THROWN ON PACKERS' SYSTEM OF HANDLING GOODS

Inquiry As to Restriction of Trade Continues, Before the Investigators.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Jan. 31.—Further light was thrown on the use of the margin system in the dressed beef business in the packers' trial today. Government Counsel James M. Shoen continued the direct examination of Herman Pothoff margin clerk for the G. H. Hammond & Co. plant of the National Packing company when court opened and brought out that the dairy margin summaries played an important part in the purchasing of cattle by the packers. Copies of these summaries, the witness said, were sent to each cattle buyer daily as a guide and were an important factor in determining the price paid for the animals.

By means of these margin summaries the government declares the packers are enabled to keep a close check on the work of the cattle buyers. A daily comparison of the cost and profits on each lot of cattle purchased is made and rivalry among the buyers is maintained.

Pothoff was excused without cross-examination and was followed by George D. Robert, manager of the Hammond company at Bridgeport, Conn., a selling agency of the National Packing company, who testified along similar lines to those preceding him.

Mr. Johnson came prepared to fight the commitment of his daughter to the school and had engaged an attorney, J. J. DEMOCRATS MEET IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Action to be Taken by Delegates to National Convention Unknown—Former Senator Pettigrew Present.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 31.—Leading Democrats of South Dakota met in conference here today to discuss plans for the coming state and national campaigns. As the primary system prevails in South Dakota the state is the nearest approach to the old-time state conventions. For some months the Democrats have been engaged in perfecting a reorganization of the party for the purpose of waging an aggressive campaign this year. In view of the fight in progress between the republican factions, the Democrats believe their chances of success this year are better than ever before. Whether the South Dakota delegates to the Baltimore convention will support Harmon or Wilson for the presidency cannot be foretold as yet with any degree of certainty. Among those in attendance at today's conference were E. S. Johnson, member of the Democratic committee from South Dakota and a possible candidate for governor, and former United States Senator Richard P. Pettigrew, who hopes to be the Democratic choice to succeed Senator Gurnea when the latter's term expires a year hence.

MARTIAL LAW ENDED THOUGHTS OF STRIKE

Lisbon Again Quiet After Outrages of The Past Few Days by Law Violators.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lisbon, Jan. 31.—Proclamation of martial law here and the arrest of more than 1,000 of the most active among the agitators including all the members of the strike committee has virtually broken the backbone of the general strike which began on Monday in sympathy with the street car employees of Evora province of Alentejo. The progressive influence of the military and under the command of Gen. Carvalhal who had 8,000 troops under his orders, has awed the strikers and this morning several bombs were thrown at the cars as they passed along the streets but apparently they were not of a deadly nature as no casualties have been reported.

WILL SEND GIRL TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Nellie Johnson, Committed There With Consent of Self And Her Father—Letter Plays Part.

Nellie Johnson, who with Margaret Driver was arraigned on charges of misconduct, today was committed to the State Industrial School for Girls at Milwaukee. This action was taken with the consent of the girl and her father after a prolonged discussion with Judge Field, Chief of Police Appleby and District Attorney Dunlap.

Mr. Johnson came prepared to fight the commitment of his daughter to the school and had engaged an attorney, J. J. Cunningham, to plead his case but his opposition ceased after Chief Appleby produced and read to him a letter which he had recently received from a girl who had been committed to the industrial school two years ago.

This girl, who was arrested and committed for an offense similar to that of Nellie Johnson, expressed herself as very well pleased with her stay in the school. Time had passed quickly; she had learned to do many useful things, had taken the pledge and was going to do her best to keep it. She now fully realized what it was to be a good woman, whom people will respect. Since coming to the school she had been promoted to the honor cottage where she was now staying.

The letter was written in a good hand and grammatically was correct. Chief Appleby said that when the girl left Janesville she was unable to read and write.

Sheriff E. H. Ransom will take Nellie Johnson and Margaret Driver to Milwaukee tomorrow, the former going to the state institution and the latter to the House of Good Shepherd.

WOODMEN TO DISCUSS EFFECT OF INCREASE

Members of Local Lodge Much Interested in Action of Convention and Will Hear Report Soon.

At the next regular meeting of Florence Camp No. 366 Modern Woodmen of America, on Monday evening, Jan. 12, there will be a discussion and report on the action taken by the local camp at their meeting in Chicago last week by which they raised insurance rates of the order approximately 47 per cent.

Members of the order in this city number about 400 and the lodge has been a strong one. The action of the convention has aroused considerable discussion among the members of the order here, as well as throughout the country and opinions vary as to the effect of the action in about the same ratio as the delegates were divided at the convention.

It is the opinion expressed by several members of the local lodge that the increase in insurance rates will fall heavier on the older members and may cause some of them to drop out. It is pointed out that this has been the general consequence of fraternal insurance after it has been in force for a certain period, as the tendency is to start in at a rate lower than can be continued for any length of time.

On the other hand it is also stated that the lodge will be benefited by the action as it will be placed on an absolutely sound financial basis and consider the adoption of the new schedule a distinct advance for fraternal insurance. They believe that the entire order will be strengthened as a result. Other Woodmen here refused to express an opinion on the matter, because, although interested, they have not studied the question deeply enough. Consequently the coming meeting of the lodge promises to be an important one, as Dr. J. V. Stevens and E. P. Starr, local delegates to the convention, who were on hand for the discussion and vote there, will give a full report of the action and of the general opinion. Other members will doubtless have something to say regarding the proposition.

SELECT DELEGATES WITH DIRECT VOTE

Republican State Central Committee Decides to Leave Choosing to Spring Election April 2.

The delegates to the republican national convention from Wisconsin will be elected under the laws of the state by a direct vote.

The national republican committee in its call provided that delegates at large and district delegates might be elected in conformity with the laws of the state in which the election was held if the state central committee or the congressional committee so direct. In accordance with this rule the Wisconsin republican state central committee, at a meeting held in the Republican house, Milwaukee, Tuesday night, adopted a resolution providing that delegates at large and district delegates from this state be elected as provided by the state law, which means that they will be elected at the same time as the town and municipal elections, on April 2. A separate ticket will be provided for voting on delegates.

Conform With Laws.
Another resolution was adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That the congressional district delegates to said convention shall be nominated and elected from the congressional districts, as constituted and apportioned by the laws of the state in force on April 2, 1912.

This means that the delegates will be elected as representing the new congressional districts as apportioned by the late legislature. Extreme care is being used by the progressives in the election of delegates lest through any means some might be thrown out. Therefore, it is said, that all the preliminaries will be so conducted as to present any objection either under the old or new apportionment.

There was no election of alternates. The state law provides that the state central committee shall meet fifteen days after the election of delegates at large and also for the different districts. Therefore the committee will meet on April 17 and elect alternates. It was stated by those present that this was the only business transacted, though from the length of time the committee was in session it was certain that the situation in the state was discussed at length, though no motion was taken.

Many Attend Meeting.

Those present at the meeting were Chairman Henry Krumroy, Secretary W. L. Egan, T. C. Healey, J. A. Porter, Maurice Morrissey, Dolan, A. A. Porter, Portage, A. A. Torsen, Madison, Duncan McGee, Plattville, E. F. Dumas, Baraboo, John C. Kleck, Milwaukee; Samuel Dregge, Wisconsin; William Maubili, Fond du Lac; A. D. RESULT OF POULTRY SHOW SATISFACTORY

Members of Southern Wisconsin Association Show Approval of Exhibition by Re-Selecting Old Officers.

As a means of expressing their approval of the manner in which the recent poultry show was conducted and their desire that the same high standard continue to be maintained, the members of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association at their regular meeting held last evening at the McVicar plumbing shop on South Main street, voted to re-select all its old officers. The accounts of the show were examined and found to be satisfactory. All the expenses have not yet been met, but the association expects to come out about even. The show has never been financially self-supporting and every year the members have had to go down in their pockets to make up the deficits. As the association is not intended to be a profit making concern this fact does not discourage the members who take satisfaction and are much encouraged by the large number of entries and growing interest manifested in their exhibitions.

In the expectation of a still larger entry for next year, the association will make arrangements to secure a larger number of coops. Those available this year were all in use and a number had to be borrowed from private owners. It is planned to secure about a hundred more.

Charles W. Keeler, of Winneconne, Ind., who was engaged as judge for next year, will be provided with an assistant, and negotiations are now in progress to secure one. This will make it possible to finish judging much earlier in the show.

The officers re-elected were: President, W. H. McVicar; vice president, W. H. Ashcraft; secretary, E. H. Green; treasurer, Ed. Amerighi; director for two years, Ned Helms.

Mrs. Mary Cowles Passed Away at Her Daughter's Home Monday.

Resided in Lima Nearly Forty Years.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lima, Jan. 31.—Mary Jane Curry, born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., on September 29, 1838, and died Jan. 30, at the home of her daughter, Annie McLane, in Whitewater, Jan. 29, in early life she came to Detroit, Mich., where, at the breaking out of the Civil War, she was married to John W. Cowles. Just before their marriage he had enlisted in his country's service and immediately after left his bride of a few hours with friends and went forth to battle. Upon his return they made their home in Marquette, Mich., where he was in the employ of a railroad company until in 1873 when he was instantly killed.

Soon after the death of her husband Mrs. Cowles came with their four small children to Lima, which place has been her home the most of the time since. Three of the children are living: Alton L., of North York, N. Y.; Mrs. Annie McLane of Whitewater; and Mrs. Inez Charles of Albany, Wis. A son, Will, died in 1886.

Mrs. Cowles united with the M. E. church soon after coming to Lima and though very hard of hearing, she took much interest in it and its work. For several years her home was a great affliction and much of the past two or three years has been spent with her daughters. Besides the children, Mrs. Cowles leaves one grandson, George McLane, one son and two brothers and several nieces and nephews.

The seven-inch pin on the rear driver to which the side rod was connected, broke off short and the entire side of the engine was stripped of sideboards, rails and part of the boiler casing was taken off. The force of the rod broke the rods on the other side of the engine and broke the air pump besides smashing some of the casing. Had the engine been one of the R. GAME WITH BELOIT
WILL BE EXCITING

Contest Tonight Will Be First Played
With High School Opponent
This Season.

After being twice postponed, the basketball game between the Janesville and Beloit high school teams will be played at the latter's gymnasium tonight. This contest will be watched with more than usual interest, owing to the fact that it is the first high school game which the Janesville boys have had this season. The Beloit game was first scheduled for Jan. 19, was postponed to Jan. 26, and then to tonight. The second team will not play tonight but in the return game with Beloit, Feb. 16, the seconds are scheduled to play.

So far, the locals have played but two games, one with the Y. M. C. A. and the other with the alumni. In the first of these games the high school team proved its superiority by a score of forty-one to ten. In the alumni game, however, they were trounced thirty-four to thirty-four. The majority of the games which McMurray has scheduled, with outside teams will be played on the home floor. The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 31, Beloit at Beloit.
Feb. 2, Albany at Janesville.
Feb. 9, Broadhead at Janesville.
Feb. 16, Beloit at Janesville.
Feb. 21, Evansville at Janesville.
March 1, Jefferson at Janesville.
March 8, Edgerton at Edgerton.
After March 8 no games are scheduled as the remaining dates must be kept open for elimination games which they may have to play to gain entrance to the state tournament at Appleton, if they remain in the run. If they are beaten out by some team in this district, then games will be scheduled to complete the season.
The lineup for the game tonight will be as follows:
Korot and Cunningham, forwards;
Hennrich, center; Peltor and Edler, capt., guards; Wilkerson and Ryan, subs.

Manager Langdon of the Lakota Cardinals has secured an engagement with an aggregation of university basketball players who will meet the local team in a game Saturday night. The Madison men are said to be the best basketball players at the university outside of the regular varsity team. Some of them would be playing on the varsity, it is said, except for disqualifications.

They have a wealth of experience in the game as they are accustomed to practicing every day either with the regulars or other stars and so have team work and other fine points down to a science. The visitors who will play here will line up as follows:
Harper and Hupper, forwards; Noprud, center; Youngman and Bradish, guards.

The younger players are willing to take another chance at defeating the first team, however, and a close struggle is anticipated. The game will serve to condition the first team for the game with the Washington Alumni of Madison to be played here Feb. 8. The lineup tomorrow will be:

UNITED DOCTORS
MAKE GREAT CURE

FRANKVILLE MAN AFTER YEARS OF SICKNESS SAYS:
"I AM NOW ALMOST WELL."

It is surprising the number of physical ailments a man can be afflicted with, and yet have baffled all doctoring, and then eventually be cured of them.

By the remarkable system as practiced at the United Doctors' Institute, which is located in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main streets, Janesville, many apparently hopeless cases have been proven curable.

Mr. Geo. Schattner of Frankville, Wis., writes he is well now after over a year's treatment with other doctors, who failed to even help him. Yet he has only been treated a very short time by the new system. Last June Mr. Schattner had an attack of what the doctors called sunstroke, which developed into hemorrhages of the kidneys and a ruined stomach. This was followed by severe nervous and dizzy attacks which left him as he said: "A physical wreck."

He is getting so well now that he has placed his wife in the care of the United Doctors to be cured of an ailment who has had from girlhood.

Read the complete letter of Mr. Schattner:

To United Doctors:
Racine, Wis.
Dear Doctor:
I haven't been well for over a year. On the 20th of last June I was overcome with what the doctors said was an attack of sunstroke, which so prostrated me and shattered my health, that I was practically down and out. I began to have hemorrhages from my kidneys accompanied by great pain and distress, and my stomach was completely knocked out. Also dizziness and nervous attacks became quite frequent. I had a particularly severe attack 2 weeks before I came to you.

When I began your treatment I noticed an improvement right from the start. You certainly understood my case for you hit the spot and I began to improve so rapidly that I am now almost well, I am feeling fine and getting better every day and know that I'll soon be a perfectly well man.

I am so well pleased with what you have done for me that I have placed my wife in your care to be treated for a deep-seated chronic ailment from which she has been suffering from babyhood.

Yours gratefully,
GEO. J. SCHATNER.

Jan. 31.—1912. The barometric depression off the Atlantic coast has moved northward, parallel with the coast, and has continued to cause blizzards in northern and light rains in southern districts. The temperature has fallen pretty generally throughout the east on account of the northerly winds blowing into this disturbance.

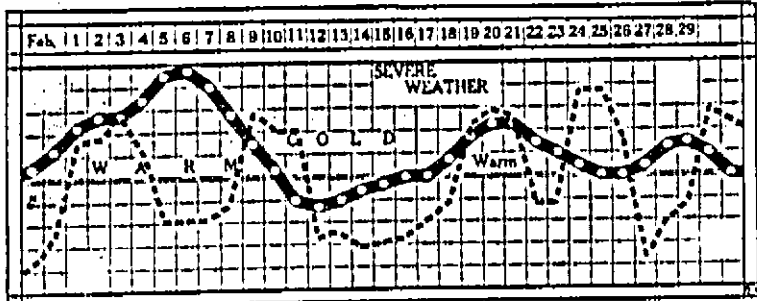

The barometric depression that was over Saskatchewan yesterday has moved eastward over Manitoba into western Ontario and extends southward into the Red and upper Missouri valleys. It is attended by cloudiness and snow-furries throughout the northwest, and is causing gales on the northern plains.

An area of high atmospheric pressure occupies the northern plateau region and is causing fair, and somewhat colder weather in the northern Rockies, and the Columbia basin. In this vicinity the weather will be cloudy tonight and Thursday probably with snow-furries. It will be warmer tonight, but slightly colder Thursday.

Work and Happiness.
God intends no man to live in this world without working; but He intends every man to be happy in his work. . . . Now in order that people may be happy in their work, these three things are needed: They must be fit for it, they must not do too much of it, and they must have a sense of success in it.—John Ruskin.

TO PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATES.

The coming primary election is likely to put in the field a large number of candidates, as any man has a right to aspire to the office of either mayor or commissioner, who feels so inclined. It will be necessary for those men to get before the people, and for their information and convenience the Gazette publishes the following brief form of announcement which occupies about one inch of space. The charge for inserting this notice is 25 cents each issue, cash with order. No account will be opened with candidates.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for.....at the coming primary election, and solicit the support of the voters.

(Signed).....

The Gazette has no names to suggest, and will support no man for office before the primary election.

BY DIRECT VOTE.

The republican delegates that are to name the next presidential candidate at the convention to be held in Chicago, are to be chosen by the direct vote of the people. This is the decision of the state central committee that is really handling the La Follette campaign in the state. While in some districts there will be a fight between La Follette and anti-La Follette aspirants for the office of delegates, it is not probable that this will occur in the First district, of which Rock county is now a part. This district has been somewhat changed by the last legislature, Green and La Follette counties being dropped and Waukesha county added. However, it will not, it is thought, make any material difference in the progressive and conservative proportions, still leaving the odds in favor of the progressives. Just who will be the delegates from Wisconsin representing the First district is not yet decided, but Congressman Cooper's name has been mentioned and he will doubtless be one of those chosen. The direct vote will doubtless send a solid La Follette delegation to the national convention from Wisconsin, unless that candidate withdraws, the fact that a Wisconsin man is seeking the nomination being enough to stir up state pride of men who might otherwise vote against the idea.

MADISON UNFORTUNATE.

Madison has turned down the proposed constitutional form of government. The vote, in proportion, was as decisive against it as it was in Janesville just a week previous in favor of it. However, Madison was unfortunate in this campaign by having in its midst a reformer who was not versed in local conditions and viewed the proposed change as a necessity. The men in favor of the change were handicapped by this reformer who used columns of space with the merest twaddle of alleged reasons why it should be adopted. With this to overcome, the plan lost prestige despite the earnest efforts of the men behind it and was defeated. However,

Madison should not become discouraged and the old motto, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," should be followed out to a successful outcome.

LAYING ODDS.

So confident are the fusion forces in Milwaukee that they will defeat the socialist regime that they are even laying odds in favor of their candidates. Odds always goes before the fact, and perhaps in this case it might be well to have a certain understanding of the situation before risking all the eggs in one basket. If the socialists should be successful, with the general trend of socialism in the air, Wisconsin might take another step forward in the political history of the country and be ranked as not merely one of the progressive states of the Union, but as "The Progressive State." Of course, advertising is a good thing, but this kind is most doubtful, so the Milwaukee election will be watched with interest.

January made its last feeble attempt to leave a good impression upon the minds of the patient, long suffering public today, but with few exceptions the zero weather, excessive coal bills and the plumber's accounts, will make the impression lasting that Janesville prefers milder weather and welcomes February with joy.

The Searchlight, a political miscellany in opposition to insurgency, published at Grays Lake, Ill., has made its initial appearance, and is filled with interesting reading and many facts. It will be published monthly and keep things stirred up somewhat in many localities.

If congress had really wanted to go down to fame it should have cut the price on coal and blankets during the recent cold weather. It might, however, take up the subject of coal prices even now with some grace.

It is too bad that the big political leaders and fighting and quarrelling so interesting while the public would really like to know what they have on their inside pockets.

Friday is a Ground-Hog day. Let us see if the little chap knows what he is talking about and everyone pray for a cloudy day so he may not see his shadow.

A correspondent asked a Chicago paper how prairie dogs burrowed and the editor kindly but firmly referred him to Alton B. Parker. It was cruel but true.

Chicago is to have an aeroplane regatta some time next summer. The obituary editors are now making up their morgue of the almanac who will compete.

Those people who have pleaded for an old-fashioned winter evidently did not have to buy any coal and had a homely and dairy attached to their homes.

Colonel Roosevelt keeps his boom from being frost-bitten by carefully preventing any premature exposure.

Walk carefully now. The price of butter and eggs may even go up higher yet.

SPUR OF THE MOMENT

SISTER'S PICTURE.

When sister gets her picture taken she makes an awful fuss. She thrashes round until she has the whole house in a muss.

She starts to gettin' ready long before it's time to go. And the family is in an uproar for a good long week or so.

She daubs the powder on her nose. And on her cheeks some paint.

She thinks that in the picture, she must look like what she isn't.

She puts her best silk stockings on. And fusses with her hair.

And combs it like it never was. On her or anywhere.

She gets down to the gallery. And then the fun begins.

She notices a lot of smirks. And frowns and scowls and grins.

She tries to pose, unconscious like. With easy pose and grace.

But most that she makes out to do is just twist up her face.

And when she gets the proofs up home.

The folks all have to laugh. For the expression on her face is like a dyin' cat.

The picture ain't like her at all. Tain't natural a bit.

But sister thinks it is just grand. And says there's class to it.

It makes her look a good deal like some fourth class actress.

And ain't got no resemblance to no one we ever seen.

She never gets old up like that. Except in some faint look.

ACCORDING TO UNCLE ADNER.

More responsibility is placed on supporters than any other invention of this race of men.

This would be a reasonably happy world if every fellow could get his love letters back.

Among the members of the great leisure class in this country must be numbered the husbands of the china painters.

Elmer Spink has started in making a burnt wood picture for Miss Paney Tibbitt's birthday present, but has let it be noted around that if she makes eyes at any travelling men during the year, somebody else will be the fair recipient of the same.

The young fellows that got a lot of impossible neckties for Christmas should save 'em up until after they got married. After a fellow is married he don't care what he wears.

There are two kinds of people that there is no use in trying to convert. One is the kind that wears red flannel under clothing and the other is the kind that date on Isben.

Our idea of having a good time is going to an afternoon reception and conversation, where the subject under discussion is Maeterlinck's "Influence Upon Modern Drama."

FAME

Professor Archibaldus Mutt was quite unknown to Fame until he found a little microbe on a twenty thousand dollar bill. The papers used his portrait and the lecture managers got who agreed that he was a prize. When this engagement had expired with no more lecture dates to fill Professor Mutt was not dismayed, but just went into vaudeville.

Bokimus Jones, he pined for fame. Life aching for him a dismal tale. And so he thought he'd try his hand at getting up a powder balloon. He built the thing and advertised that he was just about to fly. Around the world, a wondrous feat that no man yet had dared to try. He was profusely interviewed. His name was heard on every lip. He went out lecturing and then from time to time postponed the trip. Whenever interest seemed to lag once more he would prepare to soar. He'd fly five miles and then come back and lecture for a year or more.

Miss Mazie Smith found life was tame. She traveled with a burlesque show. For she was just a chorus girl—one of a long and tiresome row. She bribed a fellow passenger to kiss her in a trolley car. The managers played the thing up big. The managers made her a star. Her name is on the theater, spelled out in incandescent lights. And Mazie now is the waxing high on "S.I.O." one hundred nights. Just now she is the howling rage. Her luck is quite beyond compare. It's said that she is now engaged to wed a Pittsburgh millionaire.

Erasmus Perkins thought he'd like to grab some notoriety. He recommended "Perkins Pills" new his smiling face you see in all the papers 'round about and he's the lion of the town. There are a thousand easy ways to jump into a quick renown. With all the avenues of Fame wide open, safe and sane and sure, There's not a reason in the world why anyone should be obscure.

Heart to Heart Talks.

SLEEP.

Get plenty of sleep.

If you get on the average much less than eight hours' sleep in twenty-four hours you do not get enough for good health and long life.

Napoleon affirmed that six hours' sleep was sufficient. Often he got only four hours in the twenty-four, snatched at such times as he could get a chance.

Napoleon died at fifty-two.

Moreover, some historians say he lost the battle of Waterloo because of loss of sleep.

On the other hand, Victor Hugo lived to be eighty-three. He permitted nothing to deprive him of his eight hours and invariably took a short nap at noon.

Hon. C. C. Cole of Des Moines, Ia., ex-justice of the state supreme court and practicing law at eighty-four, says the secret of his vitality and longevity is the nap he has taken for years in the middle of the day.

Balzac, the novelist, robbed himself of sleep in order to write. He died a physical wreck, at fifty-one.

George Washington believed in plenty of sleep. Invariably he withdrew from company at 10 o'clock, some member of the family coming in to say:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the general bids you all a very good night."

Early hardships and experiences like those of Valley Forge shortened his life. Yet he lived to be sixty-seven and died of an acute attack.

We are like clocks.

We must be thoroughly wound up every twenty-four hours. There are no human eight day clocks.

Shakespeare tells us that sleep "knits up the raveled sleeve of care," and it is nature's surest restorer.

One may not burn the candle of life at both ends. One cannot ditch from nature. Physicians say that loss of sleep is often the source of ill attributed to other causes.

Poor Richard was right when he said:

Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise.

Victor Hugo puts the same truth in a couplet which, being translated, reads:

Dinner at six, bed at ten. Life to last ten times ten.

The Joke on Him.

They lived in the country.

"I have a great joke on my wife," said William. "I think she must be getting a bit neurotic. She was out for ten minutes this morning calling to the scarecrow to come to breakfast. What do you think of that?"

"Well, if I were you," said Henry, "I'd either get a new suit of clothes or a younger wife."—Life.

Consider This.

I went to church to worship and I found a truth; I took it home with me, I took it to my office, it was with me wherever I went, and in all that week I was not afraid, I was not ashamed.—The Universalist Leader.

NEW YORK STATE CANNOT TOUCH NIAGARA FALLS POWER

The recommendation of New York State's Conservation Committee that laws be passed permitting the State to develop its own water powers, has nothing to do with Niagara Falls.

Niagara River being a boundary stream, the Falls have been taken under the protection of the National Government and the beauty of the spectacle has been preserved for all time by means of a treaty with Canada.

It is to Interior lakes and streams that the recommendation of the Conservation Committee relates. Aside from Niagara there is vast unused water power in New York State, especially in the Adirondacks. The conservationists want the State to render this power available "at such reasonable charges as will yield a public revenue and stimulate the development of industry."

Permanent protection to Niagara Falls as a scenic spectacle is assured by the treaty between the United States and Canada. The Waterways Treaty, as it is called, was concluded after exhaustive tests by engineers and places a definite limit upon the quantity of water that can be diverted for power purposes. It was ascertained that the diversion of this quantity, which in a small proportion of the total flow, did not make a difference that could be detected in the appearance of the Falls.

Irony of Fate.

The irony of fate crops out in the fact that the men whose portraits would look best in the magazine never succeeded in making it worth while for the magazine to publish portraits of them.

BUELL GIVES TALK TO STUDENTS TODAY

Discusses Use of Tobacco by Young Men at the Opening Exercises
Morning exercises at the local high school this morning were devoted to Prof. H. C. Buell, to a talk on the subject of the use of tobacco by young men, boys who are not physically developed and to whom it is harmful, to the first place he stated that the use of tobacco by men has no relation to its use by boys for the effects upon boys are entirely different and by far more harmful.

However, Prof. Buell's talk was not based on personal observation or opinion but on results which were obtained by a strictly scientific research made by the medical department of the University of Wisconsin. These results which were gathered from the study, were published by the department and distributed to the students of the University for their benefit. Now it is evident that what is true of the effects of the use of tobacco upon the University men will be true to a greater extent among the boys of the high school who are only five or six years younger.

This bulletin showed that tobacco is a drug, since it contains nicotine which is one of the deadliest of poisons known. That this drug is inhaled into the lungs and takes effect is evident from the effects of tobacco on a beginner. The result of its use is as follows: The pulse first slows up and then increases, breathing becomes rapid, vitality in general is weakened. That it is harmful is evident from the fact that athletes are prohibited from its use.

These three facts remain as truth regarding the use of it: first it is a useless and unnecessary habit, second it is harmful to a growing boy and third it is injurious to an athlete. In closing his talk Prof. Buell raised the question—why can any boy with a least bit of common sense take up this habit which he knows to be harmful and which has been proven so by a scientific study?

He also purchased three fine young heifers from the same firm with almost as good backing as the former. With this material for a foundation there is no reason why Mr. Hall should not be very successful.

World is Improving.
The world was never so truth-telling as it is today. Nothing like it ever existed in the past. The commercial life of the world compels truth as nothing has, nothing else can, for it is on its credit and truthfulness that the fabric of our great commerce rests. You may rest assured that there never was so much truth in the world as there is today, and there never was such a real care for truth as there is today.—Rev. M. J. Savage.

WELL FILLED HOUSE SEES "TENDERFOOT"

Drama of Mexican Border Full of Action and Spectacular Incident—Audience Appreciative.

"The Tenderfoot," a drama of the Mexican border, the second of the series of plays presented by the Jack Hossay Stock company at the Myers Theatre this week, was witnessed by a well filled house last evening.

The play is one that has a wide appeal. It has an easily comprehended plot, good local color well defined here and villain, great deal of action, and a number of spectacular incidents. The dialogue is sprightly and the wit and humor easily comprehended.

The cast showed itself quite capable interpreters of the various roles to which they were assigned. Mr. Hossay as Val Brandon the "Tenderfoot" self, his part with the ease and an extended experience in repertory.

Armstrong with his skilful Spanish and speech well laced with Spanish inflections effectively portrayed the character of Tom Lopez, the intriguer and revengeful Mexican dandy.

J. H. Williams as the unscrupulous Texas tracker Evelyn De Folart as Julia Tucker and Eddie Ray as David Barker showed good appreciation of the demands of their respective roles.

Alejandro Melotte, carried the part of Pascuala, the Mexican girl, in a very creditable manner. The other members of the company who appeared in the play also won favor.

"Tonight Mr. Hossay's company plays 'A Wife's Devotion.'"

OBSERVE FIVE NEW COMETS

Two in Southern Hemisphere and Three in Northern Engaging Attention of Astronomers.

There are now five comets engaging the attention of observers—two in the southern hemisphere, three in the northern. Of these three, the most conspicuous is Brooks', situated between Uranus Majoris and Lyrae. Its position causes the tail of the Great Bear to appear to have four stars in it, instead of the usual three. The fourth is, of course, Brooks' comet; it is now between the second and third magnitude in brightness. It has been well photographed at Greenwich, and shows a tail 15 degrees long. The second comet of our hemisphere is Queneau's—the first discovered. Its position on September 28 was right ascension, 15 hours, 1 minute, 294 seconds, and declination 64 degrees, 52 minutes, 8 seconds. It is of the seventh magnitude, and can be easily seen in a small telescope. The third comet is the new one discovered by Hallowell at Stiles, Texas, at 3 a. m. on September 29. Its right ascension was 10 hours, and declination 2, 8 degrees. It is moving eastward, and was visible low down in the sky to the east from 4:30 to 5:30 a. m.

Of these three, the most conspicuous is Brooks', situated between Uranus Majoris and Lyrae. Its position causes the tail of the Great Bear to appear to have four stars in it, instead of the usual three. The fourth is, of course, Brooks' comet; it is now between the second and third magnitude in brightness. It has been well photographed at Greenwich, and shows a tail 15 degrees long. The second comet of our hemisphere is Queneau's—the first discovered. Its position on September 28 was right ascension, 15 hours, 1 minute, 294 seconds, and declination 64 degrees, 52 minutes, 8 seconds. It is of the seventh magnitude, and can be easily seen in a small telescope. The third comet is the new one discovered by Hallowell at Stiles, Texas, at 3 a. m. on September 29. Its right ascension was 10 hours, and declination 2, 8 degrees. It is moving eastward, and was visible low down in the sky to the east from 4:30 to 5:30 a. m.

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

Enough to Get Married On.

A GROUP of young men were discussing marriage. "You can get married," said one, "if you are not enough not to go broke."

But the question is, how much is "enough not to go broke?" A young man buying some things in a little corner grocery store exhibited to the grocer, when he had paid his bill, 37 cents. "That's all I have left," he said, smilingly, "and we are just married."

That's one extreme. At the other end is the man who will not get married until he has a large bank account, and who works and saves while the years slip by, and the desire for marriage grows less, and bachelor habits fasten upon him, until if he does get married, he is by no means an easy proposition to live with.

The man with 37 cents is probably not thinking about going broke, or perhaps, he is quite sure he will go broke and doesn't care. But the other man is certainly thinking about the prospect of going broke and is taking exceedingly care not to, perhaps such care that he will never get married.

Where then shall the mean be fixed? You certainly want enough, if you can secure it, not to go broke. If a prosperous matrimonial voyage is desired, it is only a matter of sense to provide the wherewithal to run the ship.

If this young man, who had an assured position with an old and honored corporation, married a girl of extravagant tastes, or one whose past method of living was beyond what his salary could afford, he might go broke, even though he thought he was secure against the catastrophe.

So some things are to be looked to in spite of the present earning power or bank account.

The sensible man who is earning a small salary is apt to look more carefully over the economic side of marriage than is the man who is earning a fairly good salary. Of the two, the man of more than modest means and position is more likely to "go broke," for he will want to live with a certain degree of style, he will probably marry a society girl, and no reduction is meant by this, but simply a girl accustomed to fashionable dress, to gay social life, and who knows little of actual housekeeping. And the salary that seemed sufficient will melt away so amazingly, that it will seem as if some uncanny magic is at work consuming it.

So the question of "enough not to go broke," really needs to be considered most carefully. It may seem exceedingly worldly to obstruct the question of money into the beautiful dream of love. But if the dream of love is not to vanish, or at least be shattered in many of its most beautiful parts, the twin want to consider very carefully the financial side of marriage.

It is not sufficient to think in a general way of having enough not to go broke. The two should study the problem of just how they want to live, of what the cost of dress and society and other pleasures will be, should they continue on the same path, when together, as they did individually—and they will probably want to do this, though few think of the cost of it. They need to study sensibly the question of health, for sickness is a terrible devourer of money. And though it seems today that we need not be sick, if we will just keep the right mental attitude, some of us are not able to bring our minds where they ought to be in this matter, so sickness has to be reckoned with.

So when deciding you have enough not to go broke, look carefully to all these things. For people today do not endure, as they once did, the hardships of an insufficient income. The path to the divorce court is less trying. And then comes bitterness, cynicism, pessimism, and a bias view of life.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

ARE THERE any words in the English language which you love? Now, please don't smile or snort at that. I think there ought to be.

It seems to me that we practical, utilitarian folks, who are inclined to look upon language merely as a colorless medium of conveying meaning, don't appreciate the beauty, color, and music of words half enough.

There are certain words in the English language for which I have a positive affection. I am going to tell you some of them, and then I want you to send me a list of your favorites, and some day we'll have a symposium on that subject.

If I were obliged to select my choicest favorite of all the words in the language, I think it would be "peace." To me there is a world of meaning and music in those two syllables. Just to repeat it, when I am restless and fretful, helps to soothe and restore me to myself. What a peace and charm the word gives the line "Serenely I fold my hands and wait." Replace it by some other word, as for instance "Calmy I fold my hands and wait," and see how much the line loses.

"Tranquil" and its noun "tranquility" are two more words that I love.

"Rose" and "saffron" are color words which to me possess a richness and poetic charm which their synonyms entirely lack. The dictionary says that saffron means "a deep orange-yellow." Surely even the most prosaic person will admit that "saffron" is a far more beautiful way to express that color than "deep orange-yellow." "Rose," of course, is the equivalent of "pink," and see how much beauty you lose.

"Peace" is a word which I love almost as well as "serene." I suppose in this case it must be wholly the association, since the word is too short and vibrant to be intrinsically musical, but whatever the reason, it seems to me as if there were a benediction for troubled spirits in the word itself. I like to read that verse in John XIV about whenever I come upon it—"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." And I confess I have often gone to church largely for the pleasure of bowing my head under the comforting music of that wonderful phrase: "The peace that passeth all understanding."

What words do you love? Surely in the light of this talk you have already discovered some. Send me some of your favorites and some day we will compare them in these columns and see what English words have won a special place in the hearts of the American people.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Filling for Layer Cakes.—Some With Cream, Fruit and Chocolates.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

With two or three foundation recipes a great variety of layer cakes can be made by using different fillings. Some of these make it necessary to cut the cake almost as soon as cold for when fresh fruit and beaten cream are used, or any creamy or custard like mixture the cake soon grows soft. Fillings that are made like jelly tend to make the cake keep.

Cutting a layer cake without breaking it is quite as much an art as cutting a pie neatly. It is a good plan to cut out the center with an apple corer and then cut in wedges. In this way the slices will keep in shape and the plate is left neat with no and the plate is left neat with no waste. To cut the cake take a strong thread and draw across the loaf down to the plate. Lift out and repeat as many times as needed and there will be no crumbs.

powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla is a good filling for a cake to be eaten fresh.

A lemon filling is made with two and one-half level, table-spoons of flour mixed with one cup of sugar, the grated yellow rind of two lemons, one-quarter cup of lemon juice and one egg beaten slightly. Add a scant tablespoon of melted butter and cook, until it thickens, stirring all the time. For a plain cream filling beat one cup of milk, add one-half cup of sugar mixed with three level tablespoons of flour and one well beaten egg. Cook five minutes, flavor with one-half teaspoon of vanilla.

An orange filling: Beat the yolks of two eggs, add the grated yellow rind and chopped pulp of two oranges, which must be entirely free from white skins and two cups of sugar mixed with two level tablespoons of corn starch. Pour on one cup of boiling water, cook three minutes and cool before using.

Among all cake fillings a chocolate mixture ranks high. Mix one-half cup of sugar with three level tablespoons of flour, the well beaten yolks of five eggs and pour on to this mixture two cups of milk heated in a double boiler. Pour slowly and stir all the time to make smooth. Return to the double boiler and cook until thick. Add three squares of chocolate melted in a dish placed over hot water and beat well then add one teaspoon of vanilla and cool before using. A rich fruit filling is made with three-quarters of a cup of seeded and chopped raisins, added to the following: Cook one and three-quarters cup of sugar, one-half cup of water and a pinch of cream of tartar until the syrup threads. Beat the whites of two eggs stiff and dry and pour the syrup slowly on to the egg and beat until cool enough to spread, add the fruit and use.

As a change from this is the raisin filling. Cook one cup of sugar and one-quarter cup of water until the syrup threads. Pour slowly on to the stiffly beaten white of one egg and beat until it thickens then add one-half cup of finely chopped nuts and one-half cup of seeded and stoned raisins.

A fresh fruit filling is made by cooking two cups of sugar with ten tablespoons of water until a soft ball is formed when a little is dropped in cold water and pulled between the fingers. Pour this syrup on the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beat and as it thickens add one-half cup of bananas chopped with a silver knife. Spread and serve the cake soon.

The KITCHEN CABINET

A PRECIOUS perfume comes from clove-crushed flowers. And fruits give out their wine within the press.

No human souls shine out, in darkest hours And blossom in distress, Above the tide of suffering and pain, Their spirit's song leaps upward, sweet and clear, Telling of summer sunshine after rain, Of trust and hope and cheer.

A FISH DINNER.

The favors for a fish dinner may be especially attractive, and one who is at all ingenious can originate many novelties. Pretty bon-bon boxes may be half of paper in the form of fish, and candles of fish forms may be purchased for those small boxes. The little Japanese water flowers in the form of fish may be dropped into the finger bowls to unfold and delight young and old.

Favors of fans decorated with fish and a place for the name may be made on them; ideas will come as one plans for the event.

The center piece may be a low dish of ferns or small flowers with rushes.

Fish Timbales.—For these choose a firm white-fleshed fish, free it from bones and chop fine, then pound to a pulp. Press the pulp through a fine sieve, and to each cupful add a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and the white of an egg. Stir in enough thick sweet cream, about a tablespoonful, to make of the right consistency; test by dropping a small bit into boiling water and cook gently for three minutes; break open, and if too dry add a little more cream. Have ready some buttered fish molds, fill and stand them in a pan of hot water to cook in the oven. Cover with buttered paper and cook from fifteen to twenty minutes. Turn out and garnish with parsley.

Grape Ice.—A delicious grape ice is made by boiling together a pint of water and a pound of sugar for five minutes. Cool and add a pint of grape juice and the juice of a lemon. If the juice is sweet less sugar should be used.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

OUR DEBT TO SPAIN.

By A. W. MACY.

Americans sometimes forget how much we owe to Spain. Through Columbus, she discovered America. Through Balboa, she discovered the Pacific ocean. Through Magellan, she demonstrated that America is a continent. Through De Soto, she discovered the Mississippi river. Before the year 1600 England had tried to settle America, and failed. France had tried the same thing, and failed. In 1600 Spain was the only power that disputed with the red man the possession of the American continent. But after that she failed to maintain her advantage. She had introduced the slave trade, and bigotry and intolerance characterized all her actions. More enlightened nations forged ahead, and she gradually lost her territory, her prestige, her glory and her power in the new world.

Thought for Today By MRS. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE.

REDUCING THE WEIGHT—DIET. GENERAL fasting up of the whole body, especially if constitutional in origin, is more easily overdone, if a system of diet is adopted in combination with exercise.

There are two methods of dieting. One is to eat sparingly of the usual variety of food to satisfy the appetite with food from which the fat-producing qualities are eliminated. Any extremely radical change, likely to endanger the health, should be avoided. It is possible for a person of strong will to take enough exercise to reduce the flesh rapidly and overtax the heart. The adoption of an altogether different regime of nourishment may be unsafe. There appears to be a somewhat close relationship between the nourishment of the nerves and the fat-producing foods which necessitates caution.

All stout people can stand a lessening of quantity. Flesh is nature's storehouse. It serves as a reserve in sickness and can be made to do so in health. One of the greatest advances we have made in the treatment of the lesser ailments of childhood, due to overindulgence in eating, is, instead of giving them dope, allowing them to fast, letting the stomach and alimentary canal rest and clear itself. The stale appetite and wearied digestion of grown-ups often responds to this treatment, when all kinds of dyspepsia tablets fail. It is strange how much more alarmed we are over a little headache due to going without a meal, than to a much more severe one occasioned by too good a dinner.

People working very hard, physically or mentally, cannot safely cut off a normal supply of nourishing food. A horse at the plow, even if fat, must be well fed to keep up his strength. But if turned out to pasture, even though he gets thin, the change is food for him.

HEART DESIGN FOR UNDERWEAR. The heart in forget-me-nots makes a dainty finish for lingerie underwear. The ribbon, flowers and leaves are worked solid and the stems in the outline stitch. Mercerized cotton No. 25 is used.

CROSS STITCH DESIGN FOR TOWELS. The cross stitch basket is a pretty motif for a small towel. The little stalks should be worked in the center of one end and a basket on each side. All the stitches which slant in one direction are worked first and then crossed by those which slant in the opposite direction, always working from left to right. Mercerized cotton No. 14 is used.

Pale blue mirror velvet embroidered in self color forms the trim of this beautiful opera gown, and falls over a lining of heavy Venice lace. QUIT CALOMEL

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and trustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet.

The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets. They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, President. (69)

Danger In Delay

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Janesville People to Neglect.

Help the kidneys with the reliable and safe remedy Doan's Kidney Pills which has cured people right here in Janesville.
Benjamin Shaller, 260 S. River St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I became all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. CARROL COUNCIL HAS BIG ANNUAL BANQUET

OVER THREE HUNDRED PEOPLE ENJOY TWELFTH ANNUAL AFFAIR.

STIRRING ADDRESSES

Program and Dancing Followed Banquet Served in Assembly Hall Last Evening.

In the neighborhood of three hundred and twenty-five people enjoyed one of the finest banquets and programs which Carroll Council No. 596, Knights of Columbus has given in the twelve years it has been in existence. The effect of the decorations combined with strong addresses from capable speakers mixed with delightful music set a standard which will not be easily passed in coming years. Hatch's full orchestra played for the dancing which followed the program.

Long sections of mixed green and white streamers were hung at intervals with illuminated flowers, were draped from the center of the ceiling where a creation of lattice work and crepe paper was hung, to the walls of the room in long graceful curves. The walls were tastefully covered with leaves which blended with the festoons in a very pleasing manner. Carnations decorated the tables while candles added a cheerfulness to the appearance of the banquet. A large illuminated emblem of the order occupied the position of honor in the front of the room.

W. T. Maherty, as Grand Knight of the local Council, introduced Rev. Franz of Beloit, who was to act as toastmaster of the evening, after the company had taken their seats at the tables. With his usual good humor and witty speech, Rev. Franz made an excellent toastmaster and in his opening words gave some striking thoughts.

The first number on the program was a solo by Geo. Hatch which was received with the heartiest applause. Rev. Franz next called on M. J. Cleary of Blanchardville, to deliver an address on the "Church and the State." Mr. Cleary's address was one in which a question of vital interest to everybody in this country was exceptionally well handled and struck at points which must be considered if we would preserve this country as it is. In part he said, "The future of this nation as well as every other nation on the face of the earth depends entirely upon the character of its citizenship. The fact that no government will be greater or more powerful than its citizenship is shown in history, repeatedly by the nations which allowed their citizens to become degraded. Therefore it is the highest duty of all churchmen to preserve the faith and liberty which we possess for our posterity. While no other nation has the liberties which we enjoy, no other nation has the accompanying duties and responsibilities. Exponents of socialism, of credos and doctrines which strike at the foundation of the citizenship of the country should be done away with. In questions which involve these fundamental questions all Christians should take part politically if possible."

"Some socialist doctrine strikes at the church, the home, and the school, which are the foundation of our citizenship today and which are the instruments for moulding the citizens which will govern the country after us."
"Equal suffrage is one of the greatest moral problems ever submitted to the people of the state. It involves the mother in the home which is the source of the greatest men of the coming generations. It concerns the woman in the home who has the highest esteem and respect from all classes in the country. If she leaves this place of honor and respect and enters public life she will remain the same factor for good which she now is. Personally I'm afraid who will not. The Christians in the country as a great moral force should play a large part in the progress toward the best solution of these problems. The Knights of Columbus should exert a wonderful influence for good with their excellent organization. So it is that if we live up to our faith we cannot be unparticipative or disloyal to our state."

Mrs. James Hoffman next entertained the company with a vocal selection which was so pleasing that she was forced to answer the applause with an encore.
Dr. Harrington's address which was next on the program dealt with the duties and possibilities which confronted the members of the Knights of Columbus. He spoke of their strength, the mission which they were trying to accomplish and the success which they had enjoyed in their work so far. As State Deputy he was well able to present the needs and problems of the order as well as to describe what they had already accomplished in the many years which they have been organized.
Following the banquet and program the tables were cleared away and the company enjoyed dancing until a late hour to the strains of Hatch's six piece orchestra. The party finally broke up to the regrets of all present and one of the most successful and enjoyable social events of the year was brought to a close.

WILL GROUND HOG SEE HIS SHADOW?

Speculation Begins Among Local Weather Prophets As Result of Annual Winter Visit.

Regularly once every winter, so the story goes, Major Ground-Hog on the second of February, roused himself from his hibernical slumbers and makes a cursory investigation of the outer world. If on this occasion which is now fast approaching, he should be met by his own shadow, it is generally conceded without any question of doubt, that Major Ground-Hog returns to his cozy abode in the earth for a period of at least six weeks, and by that same sign winter weather is supposed to be forthcoming for the identical period.

Speculations are begun at present by the weather prophets in this city as well as all over the country, as to the result of the annual winter visit in 1912. The scheduled date is but two days off and indications are that the sun will be on the job and that the shadow, but the wind may change and clouds come up, in which case we will expect an early spring and the farmer will make preparations to have his grain sown by St. Patrick's day.

How Mr. Ground-Hog knows when the second of February arrives is still a mystery. It is hardly supposed that he has the latest 1912 beauty calendar for he took up his abode in his comfortable home before they were issued. However, he knows that it is the day and he acts accordingly as if the index decreed.

The question is also asked what time will he be seen? This might be important, say some, as the sun might not shine during the entire day. But the number of Ground-Hog family is many and they may not all get up at the same time of the day which leaves the possibility of escaping even the least bit of sunshine very doubtful.

The PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

By Gaston Leroux

Author of

THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW RACE and THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

Illustrations by M. G. Kettner

"These are places," Mercier interposed, "created and forced upon us by the under-secretary for fine arts. They are filled by prototypes of the government and, if I may venture to say, 'I don't care a hang for the government!' roared Richard. 'We don't need more than four stablemen for twelve horses.'"

"Eleven," said the head riding-master, correcting him.

"Twelve," repeated Richard.

"Eleven," repeated Lachenel.

"Oh, the acting-manager told me that you had twelve horses!"

"I did have twelve, but I have only eleven since Cesar was stolen."

And M. Lachenel gave himself a great smack on the foot with his whip.

"Has Cesar been stolen?" cried the acting-manager. "Cesar, the white horse in the Profeta?"

"There are not two Cesars," said the stud-groom dryly. "I was ten years at Franconia and I have seen plenty of horses in my time. Well, there are not two Cesars. And he's been stolen."

"How?"

"I don't know. Nobody knows. That's why I have come to ask you to seek the whole stable."

"What do your stablemen say?"

"All sorts of nonsense. Some of them accuse the super. Others pretend that it's the acting-manager's doorkeeper."

"My doorkeeper? I'll answer for him as I would for myself!" protested Mercier.

"But, after all, M. Lachenel," cried Richard, "you must have some idea."

"Yes, I have," M. Lachenel declared. "I have an idea and I'll tell you what it is. There's no doubt about it in my mind. He walked up to the two managers and whispered, 'It's the ghost who did the trick!'"

Richard gave a jump.

"What, you too? You too?"

"How do you mean, I too? Isn't it natural, after what I saw?"

"What did you see?"

"I saw, as clearly as I now see you, a black shadow riding a white horse that was as like Cesar as two peas!"

"And did you run after them?"

"I did and I shouted, but they were too fast for me and disappeared in the darkness of the underground gallery."

M. Richard rose. "That will do, M. Lachenel. You can go. . . . We will lodge a complaint against the ghost."

"And sack my stable?"

"Oh, of course! Good morning."

M. Lachenel bowed and withdrew. Richard leaned at the mouth.

"Settle that idiot's account at once, please."

"He is a friend of the government representative!" Mercier ventured to say.

"And he takes his vermilion at Fortoul's with Lagrene, Scholl and Perleu," the Non-hunter, added Monchardin.

"We shall have the whole press against us! He'll tell the story of the ghost, and everybody will be laughing at our expense! We may as well be dead as ridiculous!"

"All right, say no more about it."

At that moment the door opened. It must have been deserted by its usual guardian, for Mame Giry entered without ceremony, holding a letter in her hand, and said hurriedly:

"I beg your pardon, excuse me, gentlemen, but I had a letter this morning from the opera ghost. He told me to come to you, that you had something to . . ."

She did not complete the sentence. She saw M. Richard's face; and it was a terrible sight. He seemed ready to burst. He said nothing, he could not speak. But suddenly he acted. First, his left arm seized upon the quivering person of Mame Giry and made her describe so unexpectedly a semicircle that she uttered a despairing cry. Next, his right foot imprinted its sole on the black tuft of a skirt which certainly had never before undergone a similar outrage in a similar place. The thing happened so quickly that Mame Giry, when in the passage, was still quite bewildered and seemed not to understand. But, suddenly, she understood; and the opera rang with her indignant yells, her violent protests and threats.

About the same time M. Richard, who had a small house of his own in the Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré, rang for his maid, who brought her letters to her bed. Among them was an anonymous missive, written in red ink, in a hesitating, clumsy hand, which ran:

"If you appear tonight, you must be prepared for a great misfortune at the moment when you open your mouth to sing . . . a misfortune worse than death."

The letter took away Mame Giry's appetite for breakfast. She pushed back her chocolate, sat up in bed and thought hard. It was not the first letter of the kind which she had received, but she never had one couched in such threatening terms.

She thought herself, at that time, the victim of a thousand jealous attempts and went about saying that she had a secret enemy who had sworn to ruin her. She pretended that a wicked plot was being hatched against her, a cabal which would come to a head one of those days; but she added that she was not the woman to be intimidated.

The truth is that, if there was a cabal, it was led by Mame Giry herself against poor Christine, who had no suspicion of it. Mame Giry had never forgiven Christine for the triumph which she had achieved when taking her place at a moment's notice. When Christine heard of the astounding reception bestowed upon her under-study, she was at once cured of an insipient attack of brimstone and a bad fit of sulking against the management, and lost the slightest inclination to shrink her duties. From that time, she worked with all her might to "smother" her rival, enlisting the services of influential friends to persuade the managers not to give Christine the opportunity for a fresh triumph. Certain newspapers which had begun to extol the talent of Christine now interested themselves only in the fame of Mame Giry. Lastly, in the theater itself, the celebrated, but heartless and soulless diva made the most scandalous remarks about Christine and tried to cause her endless minor unpleasantnesses.

When Christine had finished thinking over the threat contained in the strange letter, she got up.

"You have a bad cold. If you are who, you will see that it is madness to try to sing tonight."

Christine sneered, shrugged her handsome shoulders and sang two or three notes to reassure herself.

Her friends were faithful to their promise. They were all at the opera that night, but looked round in vain for the fierce conspirators whom they were instructed to suppress. The only unusual thing was the presence of M. Richard and M. Monchardin in Box Five. Christine's friends thought that, perhaps, the managers had winked, on their side, at the proposed disturbance and that they had determined to be in the house, so as to stop it then and there; but this was unjustifiable supposition, as the reader knows. M. Richard and M. Monchardin were thinking of nothing but their ghost.

"Vain! In vain do I call, through my violet weary."

On creation and its Lord! Never reply will break the silence dreary! No sign! No smile word!"

The famous baritone, Carolus Fonta, had hardly finished Doctor Faust's first appeal to the powers of darkness, when M. Richard, who was sitting in the ghost's own chair, the front chair on the right, leaned over to his partner and asked him, in a low voice:

"Well, has the ghost whispered a word in your ear yet?"

"Wait, don't be so much a hurry," replied M. Richard Monchardin, in the same low tone. "The performance has only begun and you know that the ghost does not usually come until the middle of the first act."

The first act passed without incident, which did not surprise Christine's friends, because Mame Giry does not sing in this act. As for the managers, they looked at each other, when the curtain fell.

"That's one!" said Monchardin.

"Yes, the ghost is late," said M. Richard.

"It's not a bad house," said Monchardin, "for a house with a curse on it."

M. Richard smiled and pointed to a fat, rather vulgar woman, dressed in black, sitting in a stall in the middle of the auditorium with a young man in a broadcloth frock-coat on either side of her.

"Who on earth are those?" asked Monchardin.

"Those," my dear fellow, are my concubine, her husband and her brother."

"Did you give them their tickets?"

"I did. . . . My concubine had never been to the opera—this is the first time—and, as she is now going to come every night, I wanted her to have a good seat, before spending her time showing other people to theirs."

Monchardin asked what he meant and Richard answered that he had persuaded his concubine, in whom he had the greatest confidence, to come and take Mame Giry's place. Yes, he would like to see it, with that woman instead of the old lunatic, Box Five would continue to astonish the natives."

"By the way," said Monchardin, "you know that Mother Giry is going to lodge a complaint against you."

"With whom? The ghost?"

"The ghost!"

"The ghost!"

"The ghost!"

"The ghost!" Monchardin had almost forgotten him. However, that mysterious person did nothing to bring himself to the memory of the managers; and they were just saying so to each other for the second time, when the door of the box suddenly opened to admit the startled stage-manager.

"What's the matter?" they both asked, amazed at seeing him there at such a time.

"It seems there's a plot got up by Christine Dana's friends against Carlotta. Carlotta's furious."

"What on earth . . . ?" said Richard, knitting his brows.

But the curtain rose on the harem scene and Richard made a sign to the stage-manager to go away. When the two were alone again, Monchardin leaned over to Richard:

"Then Dana has friends?" he asked.

"Yes, she has."

"Whom?"

Richard glanced across at a box on the grand tier containing no one but two men.

"The Comte de Chagny?"

"Yes, he spoke to me in her favor with such warmth that, if I had not known him to be Sorrell's friend . . ."

"Really? Really?" said Monchardin. "And who is that pale young man beside him?"

"That's his brother, the viscount."

"He ought to be in his bed. He looks ill."

"The stage rang with gay song: 'Red or white liquor, Contraband! What can it matter, So we have wine?'"

Students, citizens, soldiers, girls and matrons whirled light-heartedly before the lun with the figure of Bacchus for a sign. Sobel made her entrance. Christine Dana looked charming in her boy's clothes; and Carlotta's partisans expected to hear her greeted with an ovation which would have enlightened them as to the intentions of her friends. But nothing happened.

On the other hand, when Mame Giry crossed the stage and sang the only two lines allotted her in this second act:

"No, my lord, not a lady am I, nor yet a beauty, And do not need an arm to help me on my way."

Carlotta was received with enthusiastic applause. It was so unexpected and so unneeded for those who knew nothing about the rumors looked at one another and asked what was happening. And this act also was finished without incident.

Then everybody said: "Of course, it will be during the next act."

Some, who seemed to be better informed than the rest, declared that the "row" would begin with the ballad of the King of Thule and rushed to the subscribers' entrance to warn Carlotta. The managers left the box during the entr'acte to find out more about the cabal of which the stage-manager had spoken; but they soon returned to their seats, shrugging their shoulders and treating the whole affair as silly.

System Full of Uric Acid—The Great Kidney Remedy Cured.

Two years ago I was very sick and after being treated by several of the best physicians in Clinton, I did not seem to get any better. I was confined to my bed. Seeing Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertised, I resolved to give it a trial. After using it for three weeks, I found I was gaining nicely, so I continued until I had taken a number of bottles. I am now restored to health and have continued my labors. My system was full of uric acid but Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I am sixty years old.

Yours very truly,
W. C. COOK,

Tomato Oil in Commerce. $

Tomato oil, useful for varnish and as a fuel, is now made from the waste of the tomato-preserving industry. In the province of Parma, Italy, where 54,000 tons of tomatoes have been used in the last year, waste has been about 15 per cent, and partial freeing from water by pressing left a mass—chiefly of seeds—of about 4,000 tons. The seed mass, by cold compression, yields 18 per cent of golden yellow oil.

Bishop Was Ready for Them. A story is told of a certain Norman bishop, who preached so eloquently against the wearing of long hair before Henry I. and his courtiers, that they gave in on the spot and agreed to have their locks shorn. No sooner had they made their decision than the wise prelate, who had provided for just such a contingency, pulled out a pair of shears from his sleeve and soon removed the curls of the whole court.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE TONSORIAL ART

By HOWARD L. RANN.

THE tonsororial art is a form of torture by the Chinese just prior to the discovery of the pole vaulting toothache. The Chinese popularized this art by shaving themselves with a pair of wire nippers, and in some localities their formula is still doing business at the old stand. The barber has a very trying life. He is expected to cut a man's hair so that his wife won't think the groom has duplicated an order for head lettuce, and if he works in a few quaint, stoppish effects and hedge fence trimmings, the customer will engage the date on memory's wall and rear about it until he hasn't got enough hair to make a door knob jealous.

When a man's hair begins to fall by the wayside, he buys it to the barber and has his shampooing done at home by a devoted wife and a section of the community. The barber is the best informed person in the community and never allows anybody's mind to wander. A communicative barber once told us that the most harrowing experience of his life was when he related the inside history of the Russian-Japanese war to a customer who turned out to be so deaf that he could not hear the fire bell. It is a very annoying thing to be shaved by a barber who is of an intellectual turn, as he is liable to lapse into a dreamy reverie and inflame the customer's eyeballs with surplus lather. There are various styles of shaving. Some barbers first rub the customer's beard into a state of coma, leaving the pleasing impression of having been walked over by a disc harrow, while others glide over his hair with a razor which blithely like a serpent and stethoscope an adder. The barber who can perform an imposing stand of whiskers without strapping the patient to the chair and administering lousings and never has to maintain the column devoted to "Male Help Wanted."

Oh So Helpful.

Now, "if at first you don't succeed," before again you try.
Your friends appear from far and near
And grin and tell you why.
—Catholic Standard and Times.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Jan. 31, 1872.—A survey of the country between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi has demonstrated that the highest land between the two is the spot on which the State Normal School is located at Whitewater.

The Evansville stage is now owned by Henry Fellows, Mr. Case having sold out to that gentleman. The question that the stage in the Northwestern passenger depot was placed there merely as an ornament to the place is rather transparent. It was originally constructed for service in the tank house, but not being stylish enough for that place was removed to the passenger depot. It is a warm stove, but needs a little veenering.

A vagrant fellow who annoyed the third ward residents by attempting to forcibly enter their houses, a few days ago, is in town again and at his old business. Watch for him with a club and strike a little higher than the East street man did when he lifted the wandering leecher from his doorstep with the toe of his boot.

The contemplated debate at the rooms of the Young Men's Association was not held last night, outside attractions preventing the speakers from attending.

N. Griswold informs us that none of the city schools held in buildings heated by his furnaces were obliged to close during the late cold snap.

We noticed two locomotives for the Northern Pacific railroad on the side track this afternoon.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MASON

I slide in the icy gutter and fracture a neck or knee; and I would that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me. So many of the lofty evening stand round in the market talk; what profit, however, if their racy dream-lings, if, perhaps, is the walk? Come forth from your hall or hotel when sick is the earth with snow, and do with a wooden shovel your stunts on the public street; cause pushing through your mistletoe your views on the course of Fate, and sprinkle the walk with a shovelful of that is the wisest gift. My neighbors will stand debating the worth of the income tax, while out on the walks are skating poor souls on their heads or backs. I don't dare a whomp if Teddy or Woodrow or Hob should run; it's snowing again already and I shall remove a ton of snow with my good old shovel, and sprinkle the ice with salt, that no one may fall and grovel and swear at the name of Walt.
